

“Are you Content?”
Utterance by Pastor Bitely, Oct. 28, 2009

Are you content to stay where you are at? Are you content to stay seated and do what you are doing or would you like to arise and walk with Me? Are you content to stay upon the shore or would you like to walk upon the waters? Are you content to see the poor stay poor or would you like to see those things change? Are you content when you see those that are bound with sickness and disease or would you like to be a healer? Are you content to see people miserable and lost or would you like to come and walk with Me and see people's lives changed through you, you and Me, and Me and you? If you are content then you will stay where you are at. But if you are not content, then know that you can arise and you can come and walk with Me, even in impossible places. For yea the Greater One is in you and impossible things become possible to those that will arise and those that will walk with Me. If you are content to stay where you are at, then that is where you will stay. But if there is a desire in you, a longing in you and even a desperation in you for more, then arise in your heart, and say: I will not stay here. I will arise and go forth and I will walk with My Lord, hand in hand and together, together we will see things done and do things that could not be done and life will be changed, people will be healed, the poor will become rich, the sick will become well, those that are discouraged and despondent will be set free and you will come and you will walk upon the waters with Me, saith the Lord.
